1 Free's fashion stars draw a crowd

Tickets to the Fremantle Fashion Collective were so in demand that only the front-row guests got a seat while the remaining 250 were left standing to enjoy the parade of Fremantle designers. Another 100 fashion fiends, who missed out on a ticket, watched from outside. The event was held at Fremantle's PS Art Space – rich in character with old brick walls, high ceilings and exposed beams. Sixteen Chadwick models strutted the runway in collections from designers including Morrison, Yuki and Empire Rose. The face of the event, Year 9 Perth College student Topaz Berger, was a standout.
Spotted: Brad Pettitt, Lee Spurr, Ryan Crowley and Samara Tugwell.

2 Arena shares pearls of wisdom

Tina Arena was the VIP star at Atlas Pearls and Perfumes Christmas soiree. The popular singer is collaborating with the company to create a luxury perfume and splits her time between Australia and France. She told guests she sees Australia as a nation that is "raw, highly spirited and perhaps at times uncozy" in comparison with France, "a country with history, food, art, conversation, debate, luxury." "But there is a lot to be taken from that wonderful Australian spirit," she added. Speaking candidly with guests at the Claremont store party, the 47-year-old said she is trying to instill her strong Italian work ethic into her nine-year-old son, Gabriel.
