CropLogic has received an advisor's report on how to exploit the legalisation of cannabis in certain parts of the United States. It tells the market is is most likely to apply for a grower licence. Oregon already has 576 industrial hemp growers registered, a 4369 per cent increase since licensing began in 2015.

CropLogic is waiting for a second report from Green Light Law before it decides whether to create a new hemp business, but an existing business, or collaborate with existing licencees. CropLogic sells digital agricultural technology and is based in Western Australia. Its shares are currently 1.5 cents.
