CropLogic in US hemp growth rush

NEW Zealand agricultural technology company, Crop-Logic, has cemented plans to establish a trial farm in USA, leasing a 61 hectare property to grow industrial hemp. The Australian-listed business has also recruited an experienced hemp specialist to assist its agronomy and precision agricultural team.

It follows its activity in horticultural cropping in Oregon and Washington state since 2017 and more recently Idaho, providing irrigated croppers with digital analytical expertise and agronomy services.
