

Dawine at the AFL Match and Making a Big Mark in China

BY ADMIN · JUNE 5, 2017

In May, Shanghai hosted the first ever Australian Football League (AFL) game in China. And there, in the stands to lend their support was Dawine. With strong and loyal connections to both Australia and China, Dawine cheered on both the Port Adelaide Power and the Gold Coast Suns as they took the field.

With an obvious dedication to forging a prosperous relationship between Australia and China, Dawine is an ASX-listed company (ASX: DW8) that is focused on bringing quality, genuine wines from around the world, including from Australia, to the end customer in China. Dawine's management are Australians and include existing wine producers, meaning they understand the needs of producers.

Committed to providing high quality customer service to its Chinese clientele, the Dawine platform provides the convenience of the WeChat Pay payment gateway and the timely delivery of Dawine parcels from its warehouse in Shanghai to their clientele in China via delivery companies SF Express and Deppon. Dawine's management has a track record of building online platforms and on running businesses honestly and efficiently.
