High grade results from Red Hill drill

Drilling is well underway at the Red Hill prospect on the Menindee Road.

Impact Minerals began drill tests at its joint venture earlier this month and has now completed two of seven holes.

The exploration company said the results confirmed its hopes for the site which it says has some of the highest grades of platinum ever reported in Australia.

The company recently discovered a 25 to 30 metre-thick near-surface layer of copper, nickel and platinum mineralisation.

About 1500 metres of drilling is being carried out at the Red Bore prospect and the end results were expected in the coming weeks.
